

2008 – The Year of Freedom

Imagine Freedom – the word means the Domain of being Free – a place, a state, a concept and an experience where Being Free is the essence of your Life's focus. That is what 2008 brings to the table for you.

Once again, I have been inspired by Lazaris, the loving entity channelled by Jach Pursel, who reminds us...

Freedom is possibility...the possibility to change and therefore to forgive and be forgiven. Freedom is the possibility to rebel to preserve your freedom, human dignity, character, vision, and vitality.

Freedom is also capability...the capability to become...to be...and then to transcend one's self. It is the capability to pause and reflect. It is the capacity to choose.

The energies that stand ready to guide you in 2008 very definitely focus on freedom – freedom in the area of creativity...

This means you are encouraged to explore the concept of yourself as a creator being. You have the support to become all that you would love to be; indeed, there is a most strong drive to make that transformational leap into a philosophy and practice of lush, loving – even romantic – vision of originality and inspiration. Valuing yourself and your creativity enough to transform in an organized fashion brings great expansion to all you can be.

More freedom is presented through organization and planning...

By grounding and accepting yourself as the rightful authority in your life, you can choose freedom from stress in your daily life. In order to facilitate this, taking time for contemplation and for acknowledging the good that is happening for you is very important. Having and frequently using a Gratitude Journal releases you from judgment so you can move into your greater potential.

The star energies for this year focus on truly being a rebel. By rebelling against the dependencies and old habit patterns you have created and hung onto, you can be your own inspiration. You have yourself and your High Self to guide the image of your new Life expression through self-encouragement and deeply visionary dreams. You have the capacity in this year to acknowledge your wounds as opportunities to become free of their influence. Your imagination is at its best when you focus on the ideal – in connecting with your wounds as messengers desiring to benefit you.

Remember that everything is intended to be a gift to you; sometimes the messages [circumstances] are unskillfully presented so you need to search for their meaning or their gift. When you give yourself permission and intention to look at Life from the perspective that Life is inherently friendly to you, Life tends to prove you right.

Whether you call the God of Your Understanding, your sub-conscious mind, Life, the Divine, Unity, All-That-Is, please understand it always says, "Yes!" to your dominant thoughts, feelings and beliefs. Take charge of your thoughts and feelings and free yourself to comprehend that you are always Loved; always Free; always Supported according to your choice.

Choose to be free and create from that freedom.
