

Angels Are for Us

Angels are Beings of Light and Love created by the Most High to serve as messengers of the Love the Divine has for us; to encourage and guide our footsteps on the path of Higher Learning and Joy; to share with us the dreams our Creator has for each of us; and to love us unconditionally.

Angels seek always to encourage our higher, brighter, more positive choices in Life, respecting that we alone have Free Will. Yet, whether or not we choose what is best for ourselves or others, the angels who guide and guard us continue to love us dearly.

It is the greatest wish of our angels that they be invited to participate in our lives; that at times of joy as well as sorrow, of curiosity as well as fear, of celebration as well as confusion, we turn to them in trust, confidence and hope, seeking their input into our experiences and circumstances. Their greatest desire is our happiness and their greatest delight is to be of service in guiding our steps toward that happiness.

For as much as they love us, the Angels among us are constrained from intervening in our lives unless we ask them. Many times, I have seen Guides and Guardians standing around a sorrow-full or wounded individual unable to assist because their help had not been asked.

We are truly not required to carry our burdens alone; but no one will interfere with our choice to do so.

Those who Guide and Guard us have an assignment: to care for, watch over, support, guide, bring Love to, nurture, inspire, guard, heal, pray with and pray for, protect, encourage, et cetera, but without our asking, they cannot do their work fully and effectively. So, if not for your own sake, then for theirs, ask. Ask often; ask much. Ask believing and it shall be gathered unto you.
